PHYSICAL DESCRIPTION:

This is a good example of an early vernacular house. Built c. 1790, this house was built with the less common exterior end chimneys. It is a three bay, two story end gable house composed of uncoursed stone and containing an end gabled asphalt shingle roof. The six over six double hung windows are arranged symmetrically without shutters. The center doorway sits under a projecting entrance hood, not original. It is likely that the house was originally clad in stucco. There are two one story, vinyl clad additions on each end of the house.

Classification: The two additions make this well-maintained house a Class II resource.
