PHYSICAL DESCRIPTION:

This Victorian Gothic house and stable house are in excellent condition. The house, built c. 1880, is a two and a half story, three bay structure. It has end gables and a strong centered gable with an arched window. The house is clad in gray stucco, has interior end chimneys, and sports a nice pent roof. The windows on the third floor gable end are two over four double hung while the first and second floor windows are six over six double hung. None of the windows have shutters. There are two additions: a one story stucco-clad addition on a gable end and one rear two-story addition.

Associated Resource:

A building associated with this house is a one and a half story stable or carriage house. This building sports a similar cross-gable profile as the house. A prominent element on the stable is the decorative verge board, although it is clad in machined shingles.

Classification: While this house is in good to excellent condition, the additions and the relocated front door make it a Class II resource.
