PHYSICAL DESCRIPTION:

This house is a good example of vernacular architecture. It is a two and a half story, two bay gable-end house, 15 x 25 feet, composed of fieldstone. The roof is asphalt shingles; there is one exterior end chimney and one interior end chimney. Windows on the façade (replacement) are six over six double hung with no shutters; two windows in the gable are arched on one corner. The hood over the door is a gabled element supported by simple braces.

Associated Resource:

Accompanying this house is a board and batten carriage shed with a cross-gable roof and shed additions.

Classification: While the house is in excellent condition, the alterations (including the gable windows) make it a Class II resource.
